Be Patient with the Living. Sweet friend, when thou and I are gone Beyond earth's weary labor, When small shall be our need of grace; From comrade or from neighbor;

Past all the strife, the toil, the care, And done with all the sighing; What tender truth shall we have gained, Alas, by simply dying?

Then lips too chary of their praise Will tell our merits over, And eyes too swift our faults to see,

Shall no defects discover ; Then hands that would not lift a stone Where stones were thick to cumber Our steep hill-path, will scatter flowers Above our pillowed slumber.

Sweet friend, perchance both thou and I, Ere love is past forgiving, Should take the earnest lesson home-Be patient with the living!

To-day, repressed rebuke may save Our blinding tears to-morrow; Then patience, e'en when keenest edge May whet a nameless sorrow.

'Tis easy to be gentle when Death's silence shames our clamor. And easy to discern the best Through memory's mystic glamor; But wise it were for thee and me, Ere love is past forgiving,

To take the tender lesson home; Be patient with the living. -GOOD CHEER.

LITERARY NOTES.

—Bishop Reginald Heber was probably the most assiduous, wealthy and successful book collector of the present century. At his death, in 1833, his private libraries contained over one hundred and forty-six thousand books. There was also a large number of unbound pamphlets. Three hundred thousand dollars was realized from the sale of this collection.

The following description of the Bible was found in Westminster Abbey. It was without heading or date; and we do not know if the author has been discovthose of the blessed book. It is so complete a system that nothing can be added to it. It contains everything needful to be known or done. It affords a copy for a king and a rule for a subject. It gives instruction to a Senate, authority and direction to a magistrate. It cautions a witness, requires an impartial verdict of a jury, and furnishes the judge with his sentence. It sets the husband as a lord of the household, and wife as mistress of the table—tells him how to rule, and her how to manage. It entitled honor to parents, and enjoins obedience on children. It prescribes and limits the sway of the sovereign, the ruler, and authority of the master-commands the subjects to honor and the servants to obey and the blessings and the protection of the Almighty to all that walk by it rules. It promises food and raiment, and limits the use of both. It points out a faithful and eternal guardian to the departing husband and father-tells him with whom to leave his fatherless children, and whom his widow is to trust-and promises a father to the former, and a husband to the latter. It teaches a man to set his house in order, and know his will, it appoints a dowry for his wife, and entails the right of the first-born and shows how the young branches shall be left. It defends the right of all, and reveals vengeance to every defaulter, over-reacher and trespasser. It is the first book, and the old est book in the world. It contains the choicest matter, gives the best instruction, affords the greatest pleasure and satisfaction that we ever enjoyed. It contains the best laws and most profound mysteries that ever were penned; it brings the best comforts to the enquiring and disconsolate. It exhibits life and immortality from everlasting, and shows the way of glory. It is a brief recital of all that is to come. It settles all matters in debate, dissolves all doubts, and eases the mind and conscience of all their scruples. It reveals the only living and true God, and shows the way to Him, and sets aside all other gods, and describes the vanity of them that trust in such; in short it is a book of laws, to show right or wrong; a book of wisdom, that condemns all folly, and makes the foolish wise; a book of truth that detects all lies and confronts all errors; and a book of life, that shows the way from everlasting death. It contains the most ancient antiquities, strange events, wonderful occurences, heroic deeds, and unparalleled wars. It describes the celestial, terrestrial and infernal worlds, and the origin of the angelic myriads, human tribes and devilish legions. Search the Scriptures." -Charles Scribner's Sons will issue in the early autumn the second volume of the 'Cyclopedia of Painters and Paintings,' edited by John Denison Champlin, Jr., and Charles Perkins. The first volume, now ready, contains 105 outline views of the important pictures of the old masters, 182 portraits, 212 signatures, besides twelve full page photogravures (mainly) after works of the modern school. The arrangement of painters and pictures is under a single alphabet. There are to be four volumes in all, quarto, and the limit of the copies is 500. This important work has been in preparation for five

-Mr. Martin Farquhar Tupper, now in his seventy-sixth year, has written an autobiography of nearly 500 octavo pages. An admiring public has shown its appreciation of his Proverbial Philosophy to the extent of purchasing 40,000 copies of that only successful one of his poems.

-Funk & Wagnalls, the publishers of Miss Cleveland's book, state that more than 20,000 copies have been sold, and express the opinion that this is a larger sale than was secured for Queen Victoria's book in England. Miss Cleveland has already received about $12,000 as her share of the profits on her book, and the continued sale brings her from $25 to $100 per month. She will soon go to her home in Holland Patent, which she has fitted up neatly, and devote herself to literary work.

-A rapid biece of bookmaking has been accomplished last week by the Scribner press. The firm received on Tuesday afternoon the advance sheets of Mr. Andrew Lang's new novel, "The Mark of Cain." It was set up, the plates made and a large edition, printed and bound, was ready on Thursday afternoon, the whole work having occupied about fifty hours.

Prohibition.

To The Citizen:

On the 27th and 28th of May, a large and enthusiastic convention was held in the Opera House at Newark by the Prohibitionists, and a citizen of New Jersey with a national reputation as a soldier and a philanthropist, Gen. Clinton B. Fisk of Sea Bright, Monmouth Co. was placed in nomination for Governor. Other nomi nations are to follow later, and an active and earnest canvass of the State has al ready commenced. It will not do to sneer at or belittle this movement, as it is based upon a conviction that the Democratic and Republican parties are alike under the control of the liquor dealer and that the admittedly great evils flowing from the Liquor Traffic cannot be restricted by any action through either of them.

A few earnest, honest Republicans met at Trenton on May 26, at the call of some of the leading men in the party to considered:-"A nation would be truly happy | er what might be done to redeem it from if it were governed by no other laws than | its shame and disgrace, only to find that but few -83, responded to the invitation and that their recommendations were contemptuously rejected by the Republican Legislature which met a few days later. The result of this well-meant effort is to weaken the Republicans by emphazing the action of the Legislature in defeating the high license and local option bills, and strengthening the Prohibition-

No matter what views may be taken as to the wisdom or unwisdom of the Prohibitionists, all good citizens agree that it is time something should be done to check the growing evil. In Bloomfield a Reform Club was started many months ago to simply enforce existing laws, only to find that the traffic was hedged round and bolstered up and buttressed in so effectually, that it had so many friends in and out of Court, so many technicalities were brought forward to prevent their execution that but little was accomplished and saloons without license ran in defiance of law and those with license pay no attention to the restrictions which the law placed upon them: and Bloomfield is an exceptionally orderly and law-abiding place, even for New Jersey.

Now Mr. CITIZEN you have expressed yourself heretofore as opposed to the views of the Prohibitionists. What do you propose to do about it? It will not do to ignore the question and the Republican party day for dealing with it has gone never to return, for the Prohibitionists will poll certainly 10,000 votes probably 20,000 or 25,000, in any event more than sufficient to ruin the Republicans. Why not therefore accept the hard logic of facts and let the better and anti-saloon element in each of the old parties combine with the Prohibitionists and form a party founded as the Republican was, on

Those who have participated in the struggles, defeats, victory, and triumph of the G. O. P. of course find it hard to leave and antagonize it, but what is there in its present attitude that makes it any better than its old enemy? What principle does it uphold or what does it represent save a sentimentality and a tradition? It has accomplished its mission and it was a glorious and a high one, and why should t not do as all must when they have finished their work. die.

The memories of the war will evermore prevent it being else than a sectional party. It can never gain a foothold in he South, and its existence only serves to keep alive its old foe whereas a Prohibition party, earnest and active, with the fire of a principle, with its war cry of "For God, and Home, and Native Land," would soon become national and extinguish the fires of ancient passion, and a redeemed South and a redeemed North, united for temperance, virtue and education, would give a new lease of life to our Republic, and stamp out anarchy, communism, and riots.

Honorable Mention.

The Town Committee and their Pa trolmen deserve honorable mention for their activity last Sunday in repressing the fast driving racing, and bicycling on sidewalks, and other disorderly conduct on the principal avenues and streets of our town. Contempt for the laws of New Jersey, if the citizens of Bloomfield will use the powers and duties which the statutes authorize.
